SHE HAS CANDY — duo CATPURSE

November 2025

album on label SØVN Records

format: digital + cassette

artwork by Hulda Ragnhildur Hjálmarsdóttir

The album's theme revolves around a feminine journey through a single day at sea, where each encounter materialises into an auditory body. Pop culture echoes intertwine with collective human murmurs, where physical sensation of taste, smell and touch dissolves into deformed resonances. This album isn't just documenting a journey — it's about the strange disconnection of being an observer in a fabricated paradise.

Catpurse is a collaborative project of experimental musicians Hulda Ragnhildur Hjálmarsdóttir and Sofia Zaiceva, primarily exploring creative coding techniques via SuperCollider.

hypergloss

July 2025

album on label Superpang

format: digital

artwork by Linus Åberg

Hypergloss was made in SuperCollider. Cello on track “manic memos” by Lumi Mannermaa.

Hypergloss is a feeling that keeps coming back again and again and again. Hypergloss is poetry of frustration.

Live audio-visual performance at Nonagon Festival

July 2025 — Svanö, Sweden

in collaboration with Ľubomír Slovinský

This immersive audio-visual performance took place within the decommissioned oil cisterns on Svanö in Ådalen, utilizing these monumental cylindrical structures as both venue and instrument, with reverberation times extending up to 25 seconds.

The conceptual inspiration emerged from the site's archaeological traces — remnants of historical landmarks, coastal geography, and industrial infrastructure. Sonically it utilises real-time feedback processing and resynthesis techniques implemented in SuperCollider. The work employs a tightly integrated audio-visual system where sound generation directly controls lighting and visual elements via OSC protocol.

Creative residency at MeetFactory

June 2025 — Prague, Czech Republic

with Sorbitol Drops and Natálie Pleváková

SHAPE+ residency

The experimental piece is a collaboration with the artists Sorbitol Drops and Natálie Pleváková, recorded during an artist residency live concert at the venue. With the performance, the trio aimed to question “how contemplative practices become commodified experiences to be consumed efficiently rather than embodied processes to be lived fully.”

Branches & Bytes — duo w/ Andreas Trobollowitsch

2025 — ongoing

supported by State Culture Capital Foundation of Latvia

"Branches & Bytes" is a duo project that explores contrasting sonic approaches: digital sound programming meets mechanical, analog friction. Zaiceva shapes sound through code, spatialisation, and algorithmic structures, while Trobollowitsch creates raw, physical textures using branches and rotating wooden discs. Together, they forge a hybrid sonic field where contrasts collide, intertwine, and dissolve into unexpected resonances.

November 2024

album on label Riforma

format: digital + limited edition of 50 cassettes

This album serves as a testament to the multifaceted state of AZE — an abstract domain evoking diverse responses and states of mindfulness. AZE mirrors the intimate narrative and collection of experiences of living between Tallinn, Riga, and Helsinki, where the album was recorded. Sonically, it amplifies the smallest details through granular synthesis and code algorithms, or gets lost in feedback networks of muddler synthesisers and the crackles of vinyl samples. Traversing between improvisation and fixed media, AZE embraces duality and uncertainty through its blend of synthetic and analog origins.

objects in mirror

June 2024 — Ropaži, Latvia

sound installation, presented at Sound Manor 360

Delves into portraying intimacy and harshness of natural environments. With a mirror as a centre point, the installation invites you to reflect and meditate, whilst navigating personal associations within a sonic environment.

periphery of oneness

October 2024 — ORF musikprotokoll, Graz, Austria

commissioned live ambisonics composition

Inspired by the centuries-old Japanese art form of 'kintsugi', this piece offers a transformative perspective on experiencing moments of rupture, imperfection and the ability to rebuild and reconstruct. The unpredictable nature of the cross-feedback strands fosters a dialogue between the performer, the code via SuperCollider and the space, resulting in novel sonic, bodily and kinetic experiences.

album of works, presented during various concerts

Collection of pieces composed on a path of exploring liminal spaces between perception and reality, shimmering at the edges of consciousness. "naked eye" blends underwater recordings of Ross seal sirens with synthesised sounds, traumatic sound triggers, and elements inspired by Baltic mythology, offering glimpses into sonic environments both familiar and startlingly alien.

Dominant Wavelength 600 nm

April 2023 — premiered at COMMUTE #5 festival, Tallinn

creative coding (SuperCollider) and modular synthesisers, live

A performance with the SuperCollider programming platform and synthesisers. The "dominant wavelength 600 nm" symbolises the orange colour and the increase of the consciousness of the Sacred Chakra. Its aim is to allow our emotions to flow freely and restore balance by evoking their expression and physical reactivity in an experimental meditative sound practice.
